Contributor/Agency employee name(s): _____

_____(the "Contributor(s)")

Manuscript number: _____

Re: Manuscript entitled: _____(the "Contribution")

for publication in: _____ (the "Journal")

published by the publisher identified in the Journal ("Wiley") for itself or on behalf of the society or other organization identified in the Journal as the copyright owner of the Journal (the "Owner").

Dear Contributor(s):

Thank you for submitting your Contribution for publication in the Journal. In order to expedite the editing and publishing process and enable Wiley to disseminate your Contribution to the fullest extent, we need to have this Agreement executed by the Contributor(s). If the Contribution is not accepted for publication in the Journal, or if the Contribution is subsequently rejected, this Agreement will be null and void. Publication cannot proceed without a signed copy of this Agreement.

Notwithstanding acceptance, the Owner or Wiley may (but is not obliged to) require changes to the Contribution, including changes to the length of the Contribution, and/or elect not to publish the Contribution if for any reason, in the Owner's or Wiley's reasonable judgment, such publication would be inconsistent with the Core Practices and associated guidelines set forth by the Committee on Publication Ethics (a not-for-profit organization based in the UK: https://publicationethics.org/core-practices) or would result in legal liability, violation of Wiley's ethical guidelines, or violation of journal ethical practices.

A Contribution prepared solely by an employee (or employees) of the U.S. federal government (i.e., the Agency) as part of the employee's official duties or which is an official U.S. government publication written by a civil servant(s), is not subject to copyright protection within the United States. Under the provisions of the Copyright Act Title 17 of the United States Code (USC), "Copyright protection under this title is not available for any work of the United States Government…." (17 USC § 105). "Work of the United States Government" is a work prepared by an officer or employee of the United States Government as part of that person's official duties. (17 USC § 101, Definitions).

Co-authors who are not government employees will be required to sign a separate license agreement with Wiley or the Owner, and in such circumstances where there is a co-author who is not a government employee, the Contribution will be subject to Wiley's article sharing policy.

The Contributor acknowledges that the suitability of the Contribution for publication shall be determined by Wiley at its sole discretion. Wiley shall have the right to edit the Contribution to conform to the Journal's standards of style, technological requirements, language usage, grammar and punctuation, provided that the meaning of the Contribution is not materially altered.

Wiley has permission to reproduce the Contribution in whole or in part, in all forms and all media (whether known at this time or developed at any time in the future) throughout the world, in all languages, to include but are not limited to the right to translate, create adaptations, extracts, or derivative works and to permit others to do so. Further, Wiley is provided permission to copy, sell, and distribute the Contribution in all forms and all media (whether known at this time or developed at any time in the future).

For the avoidance of doubt, "Contribution" is defined to only include the article submitted by the Contributor(s) for publication in the Journal (including any embedded rich media) and does not extend to any supporting information submitted with or referred to in the Contribution ("Supporting Information"). To the extent that any Supporting Information is submitted to the Journal, Wiley has perpetual, non-exclusive permission to publish, republish, transmit, sell, distribute and otherwise use this Supporting Information in whole or in part in electronic and print editions of the Journal and in derivative works throughout the world, in all languages and in all media of expression now known or later developed, and to license or permit others to do so.

The Contributor confirms that the Contributor(s) prepared the Contribution identified above as part of their official duties as a United States Government employee(s) and/or the Contribution identified above was derived from work funded by the U.S. Government. The Contribution is original, and the Contribution has not been published elsewhere. Further, to the best of the Contributor's knowledge and understanding, the Contribution does not contain any fabrication, falsification, or plagiarism, or infringe upon the rights or the privacy of others. The Contributor represents that there are no conflicts of interest relating to the Contribution, except as disclosed. Accordingly, the Contributor represents that the following information shall be clearly identified on the title page of the Contribution: (1) all financial and material support for the research and work; (2) any financial interests the Contributor(s) may have in companies or other entities that have an interest in the information in the Contribution or any submitted Supporting Information (e.g., grants, advisory boards, employment, consultancies, contracts, honoraria, royalties, expert testimony, partnerships, or stock ownership); and (3) indication of no such financial interests, if appropriate.

Where applicable, the first named Agency Contributor will serve as primary contact with the Publisher with respect to the Contribution and this Author Statement. If excerpts from copyrighted works owned by third parties are included, the Contributor has used reasonable efforts to obtain written permission from the copyright owners for all uses as set forth in the standard permissions form and the Journal's Author Guidelines, and to show credit to the sources in the Contribution.

The Contributor confirms that Wiley may process the Contributor's personal data, including storing or transferring data outside of the country of the Contributor's residence, solely in order to process transactions related to this Author Statement and to communicate with the Contributor, and that the Publisher has a legitimate interest in processing the Contributor's personal data. The Contributor agrees to the processing of the Contributor's personal data (and, where applicable, confirms that the Contributor has obtained the permission from all other writer(s) of the Contribution to process their personal data). Wiley shall comply with all applicable laws, statutes and regulations relating to data protection and privacy and shall process such personal data in accordance with Wiley's Privacy Policy located at: https://www.wiley.com/privacy.

The Contributor acknowledges the terms of this Author Statement and consents to execution and delivery of this Author Statement electronically. The Contributor acknowledges that an electronic signature shall be given the same legal force as a handwritten signature.
